Question
In this clause the requirement is that components should correspond to their respective European Standard. A remark notes that components do not have to be separately tested.
Decision
The components shall be tested according to EN or IEC standard. If an EN or an IEC standard is not available for the component in question a national standard can be used if it provides equivalent safety to EN 60598. Anyhow, this shall be indicated in the components list.
